Where does the matched-control gain occur?